Much improved

By xteeve

I liked much of what I saw here. The focus on building was especially to my liking, as I always enjoy creation/growth themes. Looking forward to see him finish that fort and the impact it has. The fact that anyone in a party can see each other complete stats and abilities feels weird to me. it seems needlessly invasive and a convenient counter/loophole against those that wish to hide their abilities or stats. An enjoyable read.

The main characters money making scheme do not make any sence. 1000 attribute points equals 100 platinum anyone looking at those nummers most realise, that keeping these points and finding a better farming spot higher up in the labyrinth maybe for high cost skill books would make a lot more sense?

but maby its the same mathe that came up with the price dude you're too expensive!
